FAITH

KNOWING this, that the trying of your faith worketh patience. James 1, 3.

At Sunrise

WISCONSIN has seen the political death penalty applied to those in its employ who put service above politics. The verdict was rendered by the state legislature. The victim was Major Edward A. Fitzpatrick, secretary of the State Board of Education. For it was Major Fitzpatrick, not the State Board of Education, who was condemned and ordered to political execution. His crime was political nonconformity. He was fearlessly independent, and so, dangerous. He had dared to propose a new life, expressed in terms of educational policy, for the commonwealth. It was possible to do this only by affronting educators in the various lines which education has followed in its natural flow. They are honest men and they are capable men, but naturally, and very properly, they were devoted to special phases of education in which they had become specialists. That was a healthy condition, for competition is the life of enterprise, whether it be trade or learning. Nevertheless, there existed the necessity for one agency that dealt generally rather than specially, one capable of initiating broad educational policies and effectively applying them through comprehensive programs.

It was not smallness, nor selfishness, that led to the opposition to Major Fitzpatrick which brought his board to an end. It was the failure of the legislature to appreciate the merit of these several branch agencies, and at the same time to understand the necessity for a higher authority capable of holding all of them in a proper estimate of their respective values, of co-ordinating them for the common welfare, and of suggesting ways and means to make education pay dividends in citizenship rather than merely to permit the development of specialists informed and inspired only to special attitudes of citizenship.

We do not present Major Fitzpatrick as one without faults. At times his zeal for education may have caused him to neglect the tact which ordinarily characterized him. He had personal ambitions which were none the less personal because they were laudable. But he can see far and think clearly. He possesses resourcefulness and initiative. He sees the big objective and never is confused by its details. He is a man with a mission. In addition, his is a personality that will command attention and respect in whatever fields his release here sends him to. We do not know of his plans. But we predict that wherever he goes, and whatever he undertakes, the world will yet hear emphatically from Major Edward A. Fitzpatrick.

A Winona Error

THERE is scarcely forty miles of distance between La Crosse and Winona, but there seems to be a good deal of misunderstanding, for all of the propinquity, judging by the action of the Winona Trades and Labor Council in refusing their approval to the removal of tolls on their city's Mississippi bridge. It was based, according to published reports, on the belief that the city of La Crosse was contemplating restoring tolls to the wagon bridge here, having found the free bridge unsatisfactory.

Residents of La Crosse will be able to measure for themselves how greatly Winona misunderstands the situation here, and it would hardly be worth discussing were it not that Winona is proceeding from a wrong premise to what we think is a faulty conclusion. Few people in La Crosse now need convincing on the free bridge. When it was suggested, just once, a few months ago, the storm that was raised by the suggestion was more than enough to show that the idea was totally impractical and impossible. We are more than satisfied with the free bridge—indeed, practically every civic organization in La Crosse within the last few months has expressly signified its approval in order to make the popular support of the free bridge apparent once and for all. It might interest Winona, perhaps, to know that among this number was the La Crosse Trades and Labor Council.

Winona will act according to its best judgment. But it is not the part of neighborliness to let that judgment be taken upon the basis of an erroneous estimate of our experience in La Crosse, particularly when as a result of it our sister city stands to lose the benefit of a good many thousand dollars which the state of Wisconsin is ready to spend upon the Wisconsin approach to their bridge if the tolls are removed.

It is no matter to La Crosse. If Winona prefers to have her Wisconsin approach-road across the bottoms remain in its present dangerous state, and prefers to charge Wisconsin people admission to their city to do business, it is her affair. Reflexly, it may be of some advantage to us in territory where our business interests compete. But it is only fair that Winona should know the facts about our experience. And the facts are that the overwhelming majority of La Crosse regards the free bridge as one of the most constructive and profitable steps ever taken by the city government, and would bitterly oppose any effort to restore the tolls, quite without regard to what Minnesota may or may not do upon the roads approaching it from the west.

Sherlock

SHERLOCK HOLMES was a real person—Dr. Joseph Bell, a distinguished Scottish surgeon who died some years ago, according to friends of Conan Doyle. Doyle says he still gets letters to be forwarded to Sherlock. Many have written, regretting that he has the morphine habit and recommending various cures. A musician, reading of Sherlock's musical bent, sent him a fine old violin. Thousands believe that Holmes is real, that he solved the fiction crimes that made Conan Doyle famous. Street and Smith, publishers, used to get baskets of mail addressed to Nick Carter. Some people are very gullible. The politicians know.

Liver

BOOK critics need liver pills, an eastern publisher wrathfully foams. We're not so sure about the critics, but on the average a lot of the troubles of most of us are due to lazy livers. The human intellect may be in the brain, but the liver has a lot to do with whether our minds are alert or drowsy. Brilliant thinking, to considerable extent, is the result of proper functioning of bodily organs, the liver as much as the endocrine glands. Under normal conditions, the tendency of over-eating is to put the liver to sleep and befog the mind. The best thinking is done "on an empty stomach." When you want your wits about you, eat lightly.

Locomotives

FIFTY thousand railroad trains are moving constantly these days in the United States. Fifty thousand locomotives—and another 16,000 chronically laid up for repairs. A car shortage probably will become acute this fall when crops move to market. These periodical car shortages are not primarily due to lack of enough cars, but rather because railroad terminals and motive power (locomotives) are inadequate. Important news, that the Baldwin people this year will build fifty miles of locomotives.

In Ye Olden Times

TEN YEARS AGO TODAY

Taking a day's layoff from work Charles Domstich, Milwaukee switchman, went fishing today and caught a twenty-pound catfish. Domstich was fishing in a Black river hole that he frequently haunts and was using a bamboo pole and small hook. It took half an hour to land the big fellow.

Dr. Collieran, who recently returned from a trip to Panama, most delightfully entertained the Twentieth Century club with a complete description of Panama and the work being done there.

The new manual training addition to the high school donated to the city by Mr. Frank Hixon at a cost of $85,000, will be formally dedicated Friday, May 16, according to announcement today. A special program of speeches and music has been arranged for the occasion.

TWENTY YEARS AGO TODAY

The street car company is making plans to build a loop in North La Crosse and will ask the city's permission at the next council meeting. The loop would run north from the corner of Kane and 5th streets to Livingston, then down Livingston to Loomis and down Loomis to Gillette and to Kane where it would meet the track again. The Burlington employees are especially in favor of this as it would save them a walk of five blocks.

John Stark of Pipestone, Minn., is in the city visiting his brother, Matt Stark, of the wagon bridge, whom he has not seen for twenty years.

A bay window is being put into the residence of Father Shuyler on Main street.

Mr. T. J. Ruland of Mindoro has started a butcher shop in Mindoro.

A. H. Engelhard and Miss Kate Jansen were married today at Cashton at the home of the bride. Mr. Engelhard is the well known grocer residing on Redfield street.

Articles of incorporation of the Dan Thayer Steamboat company have been filed with the register of deeds. The purpose, as stated in the articles, is to tow lumber, logs and barges and transport passengers and freight. The incorporators are P. S. and W. F. Davidson and P. S. Davidson, Jr.

Butchers of the city who recently signed an agreement to close on Sundays have found this idea impracticable and will hereafter sell meat on Sunday mornings. The Misses Johnson have taken the building adjoining Mr. Gear's store on Caledonia street and will use the upper floor as a millinery shop and the lower floor as a confectionery.

O. Amstutz will put up two store rooms on the corner of Caledonia and St. Paul streets.

The Big Game

By LAURA REID MONTGOMERY

Dorothy had been out of college two years, and when Dick, who had been graduated at the same time, wrote telling her that he had succeeded in getting tickets for the big game and inviting her to run up to Chicago to attend she was in a rosy heaven of delight.

"Oh, Alice," she cried, cheeks flushed with excitement, "of going into Stagg Field again. The rows and rows of seats rising against the crisp blue of the sky and the maroon pennants waving wildly while the megaphone fields shriek—oh, I can't believe I'm really going."

Alice, her maternal eyes fastened upon her small son, was mildly amazed at the enthusiasm. "If you've wanted to see football why haven't you gone before?"

Dorothy's blue eyes studied the listless face. "You don't understand, dear," she murmured at last, distinctly in her soft voice, "college is wonderful, but unless the right man invites you—"

"The right man?" Dorothy's eyes were a bit of cherished secret had so needlessly tripped off her pink tongue. "I mean it wouldn't be fun to write a check and send it for tickets."

"Is this Dick Frederick a rich man?" Money was the only subject that really aroused the interest of Dorothy's sister. Dorothy was rich because an aunt had left her fortune to her, overlooking the older and less agreeable of the sisters.

"No! he's a mechanical engineer and has nothing but his salary. But—"

"Alice, the soft-spoken grandaunt, the young girl pondered—Dick had been more than attentive to her at college until a girl had made a capricious alliance with the secure, wealthy sister, and to themselves. She could recall now the very expression of his face.

"Are you Dorothy?" Your clothes are so simple that I fancied you." He had broken off there, staring at the puzzled eyes the artificial simplicity of her school and garments.

"Yes, he lost interest in me because of that hateful money," decided Dorothy. "What's that? Don't mention it."

"Dorothy, look at Bob. He's in my gold dress again. He won't mind one of the wind-scented grandaunts, but Dick could not help but notice the coyness of the rich, spoiled girl that he had married."

Regretfully, she decided to risk a cold and put it aside. Her gold dress, with the emerald she also rejected, taking a smart, little blue morning dress to match her suit. A fuzzy hat and scarf of brushed wool had just arrived when Alice rushed into the room, carrying Bob, who squeaked frantically.

"I've found three spots of rash on him. He's probably scarlet fever, and I can never manage him alone. You'll have to stay home and help me."

"I don't bear the rest of the sentence. Daring, she leaned over the chubby boy, who stopped yelling at the sight of her. "What he looks all right. Alice, leave him."

"You'd never be so selfish as to go to a sick game, when Bob needs you!" cried Alice, "and with a poor man, too."

Dorothy, not quite oblivious to the methods of her sister, stared back, "Which of his lack of money to do with Bob?"

"Nothing, dear, but if you don't go, he won't have to pay for your ticket, and—"

"You evidently don't know the difficulty of getting these tickets. A week ago some of them sold for fabulous prices. If I don't go, Dick can probably dispose of them for three times what he has paid, but he won't forgive me for ditching him at the last moment. When she glanced down at her tiny watch, "The not time now to write him. He will meet—"

"Look! the older woman sat in eagerly, "you could phone him and tell him how Bob needs you."

Bob held out his arms to her. His cheeks were much flushed and his eyes too bright. Something was certainly wrong with him, and Alice was worse than useless in illness. She invariably argued and nagged at the patient.

A few moments later Dorothy finished her long-distance call. "I'm really sorry, Dick, but of course Bob has the first claim on me. Get some one else to go and don't waste those precious tickets."

Quite unintentionally she had shown her deep disappointment in her voice, and the man at the other end stood in puzzled silence as her instrument clicked into place.

A moment later he called her, but the line was being used to call the physician and the long-distance operator did not cut in.

"He never even said good-by," repeated Dorothy, rocking the boy. "He'll never write me again."

The doctor came and made a thorough examination. "Just a little fever," he said. "Thought you were going in for the big game, Miss Dorothy."

"I couldn't spare her," Bob's black head nodded against his aunt's plainest blouse. "You see, I love her best."

The girl tried to still her heart-ache while her blue fingers curled lovingly about her own, but Dick's strong, dark face seemed to float before her eyes. Dick, who had not said "good-by," "Shame one in the living room, Miss Dorothy," whispered the maid. "He didn't give me his card, but he's a splendid looking man."

Wearily Dorothy disengaged herself from him and without a glance at her tangled hair, went down to her car and was on Stagg Field. The game would be over by now and the long lines of motor cars would be snaking down Fifth Avenue with a goodly number of men and red-checked girls. The winners would be trotting off to be fed and photographed and Dick—he would be bringing down a few some excited, headed, junior—a girl fresher and prettier than—

"Dick," so real had been her picture of his absorbed face that she was scarcely surprised to see him. The expression was just as admiring as she had fancied, but the curly-headed junior was absent.

"Dorothy, I couldn't get you again on the wire. I—"

"This leap anxiety out of his voice, but completely failed. "Who is Bob? I kept fainting back on account of your worried money, but when you said he had the first claim on you I knew nothing else mattered except our love. Tell me, sweetheart, am I too late?"

A few moments later the tumbled head of its mist of gold curls was raised from its place on his shoulder. "Tidy, how funny that you should have been jealous of a baby. But the vivid blue eyes searched his face adorably. I'm glad of it. It brought you to me. Did you give the tickets to—"

"He fished them out. 'Forget them, these three will be the only tickets to land."

"The big game that are not used," he grinned. "I'd like to see Bob. He did me a big service."

PRE-OPENING PREDICTIONS IN MAJOR LEAGUES WITH SLIGHT
EXCEPTION RUN TRUE TO FORM

CHICAGO, Ill. — By The Associated Press. — As the major league baseball season nears the end of its fourth week all the pre-opening predictions with a slight reservation on the Philadelphia Athletics in the American and on the Cincinnati Reds in the National, is holding truer to form than in many years.

The New York Yankees are being fought desperately by Cleveland and Detroit for leadership in the American league. The Yankees are leading the National league with a slight edge, but the Cardinals are leading the American league with a slight edge.

Line Forms Before Sunrise for Bleacher Seats

NEW YORK. — Prospects that the heavyweight boxing show at the Yankee stadium would be held as scheduled were brighter at 11:15 o'clock when it had stopped raining and the sun promised to break through overcast skies.

NEW YORK. — A light rain started to fall shortly after ten o'clock Saturday morning at Yankee stadium, threatening to cause postponement of the 10th round boxing show. Promoter Tex Rickard, however, announced he would go ahead with plans to stage the fight until weather conditions made it impossible. In event of a postponement he said, the card will be held next Saturday.

An early line of about 5000 fight fans who had started to gather before sunrise at the bleacher entrance to the big arena hurried to cover as the drizzle began.

Three early ones were waiting for first chance at the $1 and $2 seats. No line had formed at the entrance to the grandstand and higher priced field seating.

At 10:30 o'clock, it was still raining and gates at the stadium had not yet been opened but promoters declared that "only a downpour" would prevent the fight. The crowd outside the park had increased to 1500.

Jess Willard, former heavyweight champion, tipped the scales at 248, when he weighed in at Madison Square Garden. He will have an advantage of fifty three pounds over his youthful rival Floyd Johnson.

Luis Firpo weighed 212 against an even 200 for Jack McAuliffe. It was the final of the championship fight. Firpo was the favorite.

EIGHT HIGH SCHOOL TRACK
MEN PARTICIPATE IN OPEN
MEET AT WINONA SATURDAY

EIGHT High school track men left for Winona Saturday morning on a hurried call to enter the interscholastic meet of southern Minnesota. The local team went in cars under the supervision of Principal Wiley and August Grams. This is the first meet La Crosse is entered in this year and it is doubtful whether the locals will point in any of the events. Each man is entering several events and even if they don't place they will have experience for the coming event with the Winona Teachers' college next Saturday.

In the 100 and 220 yard dashes Cameron, Regal and Zorich will no doubt represent La Crosse, while MacDonald and Cameron should show some speed in the 440 yard run. In the distance runs Hargot, MacDonald, Birmbaum and Fritz Erey have shown up good in the short time that has been devoted to practice. Cameron may run the low hurdles and Hargot and Killian the high hurdles. In the field events, Regal and Birmbaum do most of the high jumping. Regal also handles the broad jumping and pole vaulting. Cameron, Hargot and MacDonald are also listed to appear in the javelin, discus and shot put.

This crew ought to make some impression at the meet. A few others who have been showing up well at track work are ineligible, so Coach Keegan has to rest to the eight men above listed.

The two letter men of last year, Holey and Sheppardson, are graduates and Captain Lisecave left school, leaving Coach Keegan with comparatively green material. Cameron and MacDonald showed up fairly well last year, but they form a small nucleus around which to develop a new team.

If La Crosse comes out of this interscholastic meet with any ribbon it will be the result of some very hard work on the part of the individuals. The next and probably final meet for the locals will be with the Winona Teachers' college on May 19.

CHICAGO, Ill. — Four Western Conference basketball teams Saturday will play for the snare of leadership in the conference, the undefeated Michigan team meeting Illinois at Urbana and Minnesota, with a perfect record, clashing with Wisconsin at Madison. Illinois has won six games and last one. The Wolverine-Illinois contest seems to be attracting the most interest. Should the Wolverines and the Gophers lose, Illinois would have the conference leadership.

out overstepping the bounds of refined taste. Monday Maroon is a subtle shading of red for the body, that blends with rare artistic conformity.

The wheel base of the Red Bird has been lengthened to 106 inches and the spring base to 136 inches.

Combined with this artistic blending is the Khaki top, of serviceable material that will also hold its own in all seasons. And with this happy combination of fun and maroon are sprinkled the glistening nickel-trimmings on the radiator, head lamps, bumpers, windshield stanchions, seat plates, and frame of the rear curtain window light.

NEW YORK STOCK MARKET.

NEW YORK—Prices crumpled through the list in Saturday's brief but active session of the market as bearish traders exerted their pressure against speculative issues. The market in which large blocks were pressed against an exceedingly tight market was waterlogged with speculation as an indication that pools were also getting in from under their favorites. United States Steel common broke 1½ to 37½, while the price of the stock as a consequence of a concerted buying support discouraged tired holders of long stocks, whose offerings increased the volume of one of the pools poured in the market. New low records were made by a number of other popular issues including Standard Oil of New Jersey, American Marine preferred. Loss of one to three points were quite common, some of the largest being recorded by the Union Pacific, Dominion Sugar, Stewart-Warner Speedometer, Stromberg-Carlson, National Lead

CHICAGO GRAIN MARKET

CHICAGO, Ill.—Heavy rains in Illinois, Indiana and Ohio had a decided bearish influence on the wheat market Saturday, cutting the early sales of the grain. Buyers were apparently unable to relieve the winter crop from drought damage which has been threatening in the territory northward. Renewed weakness in the stock maring factor as to wheat values. The wheat opening, which varied from unchanged to figures 1½¢ lower, with July $1.14½ to $1.15½ and September $1.17½ to $1.18, was followed by a w

The clo was unsettled at the same as Friday finish to one cent lower with Ju \$1.14 $\frac{1}{2}$, to \$1.14 $\frac{1}{2}$ and September \$1.13 to \$1.12 $\frac{1}{2}$.

Speculative buying of July raised the corn market later. The close was unsettled at a range varying from 1/2 decline to 1/2 advance July 78 1/4

FIRST AIR BOMBING SQUAD TO CROSS CONTINENT—Marine fliers in three Martin bombing planes arriving at Washington, D. C., being congratulated upon making the flight from San Diego, Cal., in less than five days. A fourth plane was forced down only a short distance from Washington. Those greeting the fliers are (left to right) Lieut. Col. T. C. Turner, marine air service chief; Admiral Moffett, naval air service chief; Maj.-Gen. LeJeune and Secretary of the Navy Denby.

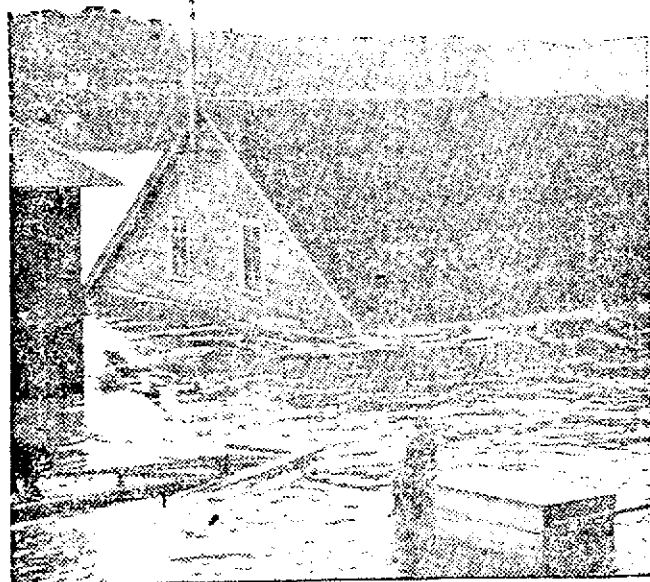

MINERS HONOR HIM—Union miners are perpetuating the memory of John Mitchell, their former international president. This memorial is being erected at Scranton, Pa. The city of Scranton donated the site. The monument will be dedicated October 29 — "Mitchell Day."

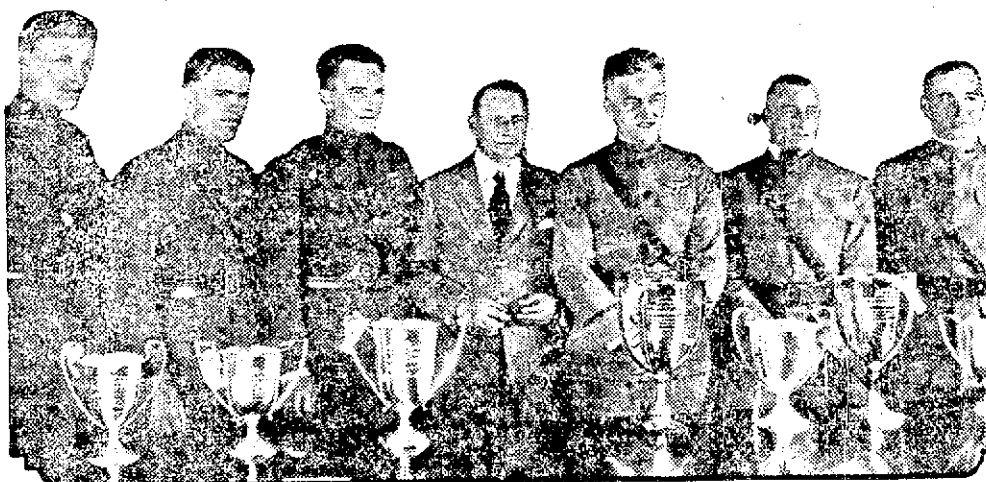

PLACE HOUSE OF DAVID CULT—Left to right: Benjamin Hill and Mrs. Lillian Harnford, witnesses for the state in an investigation being conducted into the colony's affairs. The couple, who were childhood sweethearts, claim they were forced to marry others.

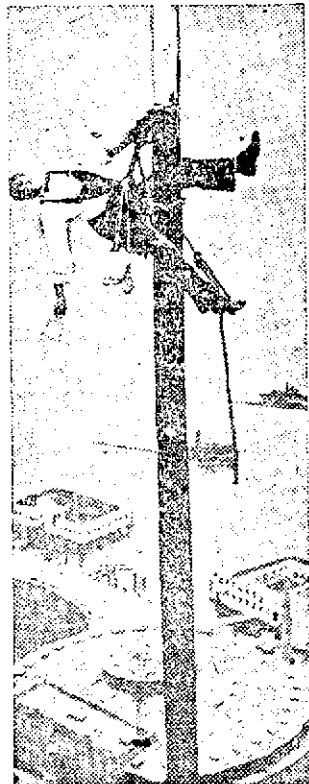

SO THIS IS OKLAHOMA!—There ought to be a lot of Oklahomans attending this annual bathing girl revue at Gulfport beach, Miss., May 12. Here's the Oil State's entry—Miss Helen Jackson of Wagoner. She has won many beauty prizes. And it's no wonder.

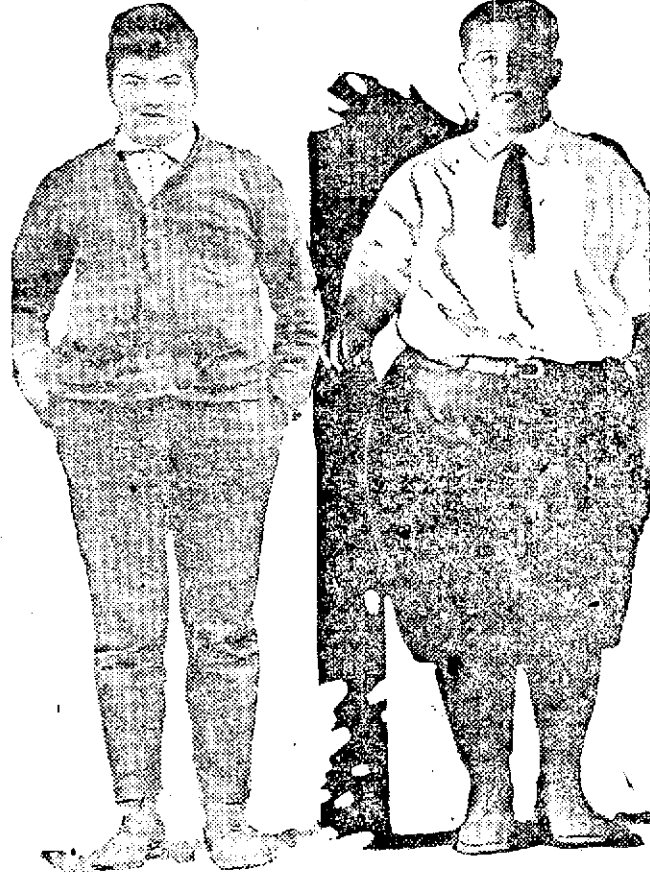

NO LAND AT THE LANDING—This is the steamboat landing at Augusta, Mo., but it's 15 feet under water. Heavy rains caused several dams in the Kump-bee river to burst and great property damage has been done.

EVERYONE A WORLD BEATER—Each of these six aces from McCook Field holds at least one world flying record. They have hung crepe on all French air exploits. Citizens of Dayton, O., gave them a dinner just before two of the six—Lieuts. Oakley G. Kelly and John A. MacReady—hopped off on their successful 27-hour transcontinental non-stop flight. Former Governor James M. Cox, as toastmaster, presented cups to the aviators in behalf of the city. From left to right are Lieuts. Lester J. Martland, Alec Pearson, Jr., Harold R. Harris, Cox and Lieuts. Kelly, MacReady and Russel L. Maughan.

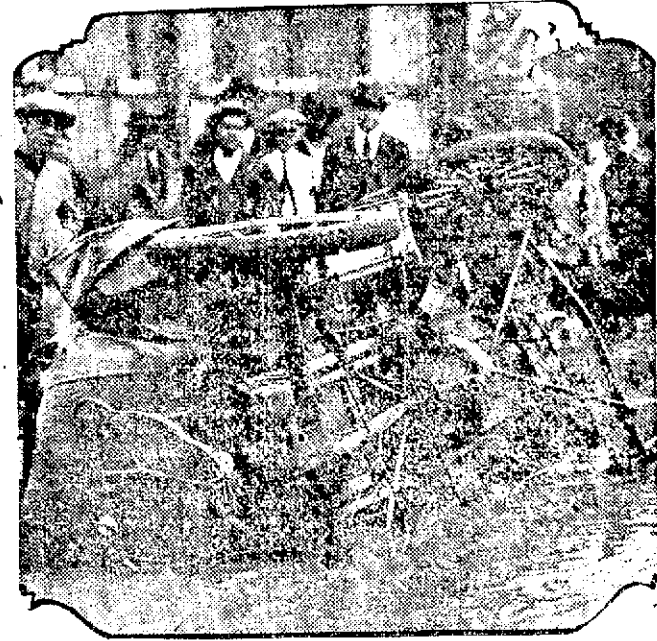

SO FOR THIS—Albert Lindholm, on the 55-foot flagpole atop the Whitehall Building and 500 feet above the ground, stretches out over Battery Park, New York. He received $11 and a bird's-eye view of the Aquarium for this little painting job.

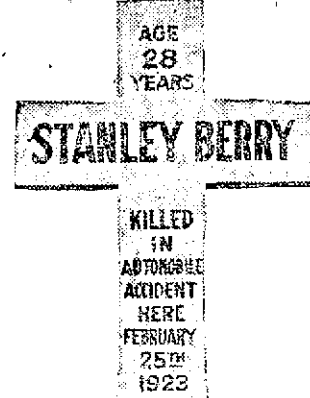

THEY TOTAL 570 POUNDS—Leonard West (right) is but 12 years old, and weighs 320 pounds. He is the son of J. T. West, St. Marys, Kas., and as it looks as though Kansas wins the heavyweight schoolboy prize, Leonard's nearest rival seems to be Harold Hamilton, 15 (left), schoolboy of Plage Meadow, near Fairmont, W. Va. Harold tips the scales at 250 pounds. He is in the eighth grade. Both are active for their weight.

BEAUTIES OF THREE NATIONS—Mlle. Gabrielle Thénard, 20 (left), has just been elected the most beautiful liette in Paris in the annual ceremony of students. Countess de Philippi (center) won the recent beauty contest on the Italian Riviera. And she refused to go into the movies! Vera Olcott won a beauty contest in which thousands from all parts of England participated and is now starring on the stage in Paris.

DEATH STALKED HERE—This auto, caught in the maelstrom of rushing water following a cloudburst at Washington, D. C., was swept 200 feet through a culvert. The chauffeur and a woman passenger were drowned.

Removal of $100 will be paid by the Safety First Committee of the CINCINNATI AUTOMOBILE CLUB for information leading to the indictment and conviction of the person responsible for this accident.

WARNING CROSS — It stands on the Dixie Highway in Ohio, near Cincinnati, and serves as a unique reminder to passing motorists that too much speed and no control snuffed out the life of Stanley Berry in whose memory it was erected.

BODIES UNDER IT—The bodies of N. J. Casiano and Frank Solomont, last seen alive three months ago, were found when this taxi was raised from the East River, New York City.

WRECKED, BOARDED AS RUM RUNNER—After the steel steamer Thelma Phoebe of the Bahama Islands went ashore at Fishers Island, New York, she was boarded by prohibition agents who allege they found 3500 cases of whisky. One of the crew was drowned while attempting to reach shore.

WE MAKE IT UNANIMOUS—All the passengers—including women—voted Mrs. Gisel Akown, this petite French girl, the best looking woman aboard a recent liner reaching New York. They all appear to have good taste.
